

#5 – What are Preservation Briefs?

Preservation Briefs are published by the Department of the Interior's National Park Service and are factual writeups on different preservation topics. They are directed at helping home owners, professionals, and preservationists in preserving historic buildings. Some 44 briefs are available on topics such as: Conserving Energy in Historic Buildings, Repairing Historic Flat Plaster- Walls & Ceilings, The Repair of Historic Wooden Windows. The link to the NPS's Preservation Brief website for more information is: <http://www.cr.nps.gov/hps/tps/briefs/presbhom.htm>
